Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

Applicant's request for reconsideration of the finality of the rejection of the last Office action is persuasive and, therefore, the finality of that action is withdrawn. The presentation of the final rejection on Paper No. 18 was premature.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

Claims 1 and 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Wolff-Mooij, U.S. Patent No. 4,610,469.

In figures 1 and 3 above, the cited patent shows a connector body having a tubular portion extending therefrom; and a valve body including a valve element with a passage therethrough, the valve body being axially movable with respect to the connector body; wherein the valve body is movable from a closed position in which said tubular portion of the connector body is exterior to the passage of the valve element to an open position in which the tubular portion of the connector body is applied against the valve element to at least partially open the valve element. Concerning applicant's comments, the cited patent discloses a connector that does not require an external piece in order to open the valve element.

Note that at least a portion of the valve body is located on an exterior of the valved connector.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 2-4, 7-12, and 16-19 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Wolff-Mooij, U.S. Patent No. 4,610,469, in view of Mayer. The Wolff-Mooij Patent does not disclose a connector body configured as a Y-shape connector. However, the design of Y-shape valve connectors is conventional as evidenced by the teachings of Mayer. The Mayer Patent demonstrates in figure 6

(below) that enhancing a valve-connector design with an additional Y-connector is conventional in the art.

Based on the conventionality of Y-connector designs, it would have been obvious for a person of ordinary skill in the art to enhance the Wolff-Mooij connector structure with the addition of a Y-connector. Accordingly, such modification would have been considered an obvious design alternative.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
